Introducing C&O Tractors' new Service Manager David Smith

David Smith has joined C&O Tractors as Blandford Depot Service Manager. David brings to C&O a wealth of experience in agricultural engineering, starting with an apprenticeship with a Case dealer in Wiltshire while studying at Lackham College. After four years at the dealership working on mainly 2100 series combines and Quadtrac tracked tractors David travelled over to Australia to continue his combine work, taking a territory after sales position with Case IH in Sydney looking after Victoria and Tasmania. Returning to the UK David took the service managers position with the same dealership in Wiltshire where he started his career, building on his baler, self propelled sprayer and tractor knowledge.

"I am very pleased to be joining the C&O Tractors team down at Blandford and very much looking forward to meeting our customers over the next few months. So far I've been very impressed with the workshop facilities and level of engineer training on all supported brands.

We also have engineers that have joined us from other manufacturers with vast product knowledge allowing us to undertake repairs on the full range of machinery used by farmers within every sector. I have a good understanding of the industry, working with the engineers based at Blandford we will strive to ensure problems are resolved quickly and efficiently – keeping machines working throughout the year," said David.

Welcoming David to C&O Tractors Group Sales and Depot Manager Dick Spencer said, "David's appointment as Service Manager is critical to the future success of C&O Tractors. Using his previous experience David is already making a difference in raising the standard of service that we offer our customers. Our objective is to provide professional servicing and repairs, carried out by trained and experience engineers, supported by premium manufacturers at affordable prices."

Success for Students in 5th Agricultural Student of the Year Competition at Kingston Maurward

The fifth year of the celebrated NFU Agricultural Student of the Year Competition at Kingston Maurward College resulted in a unanimous win for eighteen year old Alistair Bye.

The Award was initiated in 2011 by the NFU in conjunction with C&O Tractors and New Holland, who wanted to support a credible accreditation that would aid young farmers in their future careers.

The fifteen participating students, all studying the second year Level 3 Extended National Diploma in Agriculture, competed against one another in a tense day of tasks. These included livestock, machinery and estate management skills, a 50-question theory test, followed by an interview with a panel of judges including the NFU's Rupert Rees and C&O Tractors' Matthew Holland.

Winner Alistair, from Luckington in Wiltshire, said "It was a complete surprise to win – I wasn't expecting it at all! I've really enjoyed my two years at Kingston Maurward – it's the best thing I've ever done."

Alistair, who plans to continue his studies at the Royal Agricultural

University in September, was presented with the bespoke trophy made for the competition in 2011 by Kingston Maurward resident blacksmith Simon Grant Jones. Alistair's main prize will be an all-expenses paid trip to an agricultural expo within the next year, to expand his knowledge of the agricultural industry internationally.

C&O Tractors' Sales Manager, Matthew Holland, said; "It's always a pleasure to judge this competition – it's obvious the students are passionate about agriculture, and thoroughly enjoy what they do."

"This competition is important to us as sponsors because these are the young farmers of today that will become the future farmers of tomorrow responsible for the success of this industry and the people within it."

Kingston Maurward Deputy Principal, Christine Robertson, said: "We are very proud of the students – the knowledge, skills and effort demonstrated throughout the competition was outstanding – well done!"
