

HARVESTER S E A S O N

Great products and new terms for next season

C&O's New Holland CR8.90 demonstration Combine Harvester has had a fantastic season. Demonstrations have taken place across Dorset, Wiltshire and Hampshire and the combine, which has a 30ft header, has performed well in barley, rape and wheat.

Dorset farmer Bob Rowe from Chase Farming said, 'it produced an excellent grain sample with minimal loss and a fine swath of straw, it was a very impressive performance. I was also very impressed with the whole demonstration experience. The presentation of the machine and its ability to perform in the field was handled brilliantly by Jim, the Product Specialist – a credit to C&O Tractors.'

Will Wallace from Down Farm, Fordingbridge was also full of praise for the CR8.90, stating the 'impressive capacity of the machine, whilst delivering a superb quality grain sample. Whether it was in oilseed rape or wheat, the CR8.90 did a great job. It did just what they said it would do at the combine event back in June.'

Jim Walder, one of C&O's Combine Specialists said "this combine was a pleasure to demonstrate. Not only does it do a great job, but it is so simple to set up, to operate and to service. I have received nothing but positive feedback from the farms where we have demonstrated."

Dick Spencer, C&O Sales Director, suggests that "with a New Holland combine, customers experience the complete package, including optimum field performance, in-built strength and reliability, ease of use and low cost of maintenance. When this is combined with an excellent retention in residual value, the New Holland combine is a must for arable farmers looking for the best return for their investment."

New season pricing and terms are now available on the entire range of New Holland harvesters, including this ex-demo model. With the better terms being applicable for early business talk to our Sales team as soon as possible.

Gillingham & Shaftesbury Show...

C&O were delighted to welcome so many customers onto the stand to see an impressive selection of tractors and machinery, including the brand new Tier 4B New Holland T5.120 and T6.155, alongside the T7.225. Agricultural machinery from Merlo, Shelbourne Reynolds, Teagle, Kuhn and Quicke was on display as well as Honda and Polaris vehicles and a selection of Wacker Neuson light machinery and compact construction tools from C&O Construction. C&O Garden Machinery were also on hand with a range of tools from Stihl and mowers from Cub Cadet and Honda, alongside New Holland merchandise from our stores tent.

Visitors to the Gillingham and Shaftesbury show basked in glorious sunshine for the whole day. Organisers are calling the 2016 show the best in living memory, with an exceptional number of entries in the cattle and sheep classes and a record number of visitors through the gates.

The new heavy duty New Holland T7.290 gave a demonstration in the ring. The new Basildon built tractor, which was launched at the end of 2015, entertained visitors with its sheer power and performance.

Thank you to customers and suppliers who supported C&O at the show this year, especially those who took a selfie with our Olympic themed scarecrow 'Bolt from the Blue'.

Following his recent charity bike ride from London to Paris C&O MD Andy Coles raised £1,900 for the Ducks and Drakes Cancer Trust. Andy was one of a team of six who took part in the epic 320 mile challenge and raised a combined total of £15,000 for their respective charities.
